SOUTHEAST TENNESSEE VISITOR GUIDE

The Southeast Tennessee Visitor Guide is your roadmap to explore all the places and natural spaces in the Chattanooga region of Southeast Tennessee. We've gathered the best hiking, biking, cycling, and water adventures, as well as food stops, festivals, music, and historic sites to help you plan your visit.

Locals and travelers find Southeast Tennessee to be one big outdoor adventure. The region is home to one of the premier whitewater rivers in the United States, the Ocoee River, and has become a capital for rock climbing in the South. We boast more than 50 waterfalls, and our rivers and streams are globally significant for aquatic life and diversity. All this, within one of the most beautiful settings on earth.

While here, you'll find that the spirit of the people in Southeast Tennessee is warm and welcoming, and there are plenty of opportunities for shopping and culinary adventures at locally owned food stops. Our communities invite you to visit and enjoy country cooking, small-town charm, music, and a rich cultural heritage that set the stage for who we've become today.

We hope this guide will help you find your adventure in the region – and be sure to check out our website at SoutheastTennessee.com.

Music

The twang of the banjo, the drawl of the fiddle, harmonic spirituals, and heart-wrenching storytelling ballads - these are the sounds of Southeast Tennessee. Musical roots run deep here, and a new generation of musicians is building upon that foundation.

The Caverns

SOUTHEASTTENNESSEE.COM

THE CAVERNS

Home of Bluegrass Underground

555 Charlie Roberts Rd, Pelham, TN
931-516-9724
thecaverns.com

In a timeless valley near the base of the South Cumberland Plateau in Southeast Tennessee, you'll find The Caverns—a jaw-dropping concert hall located deep underground.

The Caverns is home to the Emmy Award winning PBS television series, Bluegrass Underground. With a concert calendar that spans all genres of musical expression, The Caverns draws music fans from all over the world. Live music inside a cave - it's a bucket list experience that keeps fans coming back to The Caverns time and again for "The Greatest Show Under Earth."

In 2022, The Caverns opened The Caverns Amphitheater, with stunning views of the Cumberland Plateau. There is reserved chair seating in front of the stage for most shows. The natural grade of the mountainside allows for a great view from every spot and guests are welcome to bring their own chairs or blankets for general admission. New concessions and restrooms have been added, and space for food trucks and pop-up bars can host crowds of up to 5,500 guests. The cave operates year-round, and there are cave tours from chill to challenging in addition to the music. In the summer, Camp Caverns offers kids 8-13 the chance to explore, discover, and create above and underground.

The cave is equipped with state-of-the-art sound and lights, restrooms, and delicious food and beverage concessions, including craft beer, wine and cocktails. The gentle slope of the room and its smooth concrete floor make the venue accessible to music fans with mobility concerns or physical disabilities, as well.

SONGBIRDS FOUNDATION

206 West Main Street, Chattanooga, TN
423-531-2473
songbirdsfoundation.org

Songbirds is an interactive learning experience and live music venue featuring historic exhibits that spotlight Chattanooga's vibrant musical history, especially how the guitar helped shape pop culture history in the heart of Chattanooga's Southside district.

Between the 1920's and 1950's, 9th Street (now MLK Boulevard) was a thriving entertainment district known as The Big 9, and its clubs played host to Duke Ellington, Ella Fitzgerald, Lois Armstrong, and Chattanooga's own Blues Queen, Bessie Smith.

Songbirds is now home to many of the most famous guitars, belonging to Loretta Lynn, Duane Allman, John Entwistle, and pioneering electric guitarist Mary Kaye, housed in a self-guided museum. All revenue generated from The Songbirds Museum will further the "Guitars for Kids" program, providing students across the South with free guitars, music lessons, and in-depth music therapy.

JIM OLIVER'S SMOKE HOUSE

850 W Main St, Monteagle, TN
800-489-2091
thesmokehouse.com

Jim Oliver's Smoke House is located within the heart of the South Cumberland Plateau, which is home to Tennessee's largest state park, South Cumberland State Park. This comfy restaurant and lodge offers Southern fare, cabin rentals and lodging, live music each weekend, and easy access to miles of hiking, waterfalls, scenic views, and rock climbing adventures.

Since 1960, visitors have stopped by Jim Oliver's Smoke House to enjoy Southern cooking inspired by generations of family cooks.

Every Friday and Saturday night, the Smoke House hosts Music on the Mountain (7-10:30 pm Central Time). Each show features some of Nashville's legendary and up-and-coming songwriters and musicians. Performers share songs they've written and the stories behind the music – especially if a major artist has recorded the song.

Music on the Mountain offers cabaret-style seating in a comfortable music room attached to the restaurant. Food and beverages are served during the show. All shows are family-friendly and free to the public.

Visit TheSmokehouse.com for the weekly schedule.

MOUNTAIN OPRY

Bachman Community Center
2815 Anderson Pike, Signal Mountain
423-664-3280
visitchattanooga.com/event/the-mountain-opry

The Mountain Opry is a live stage performance featuring bluegrass, county, gospel, and Americana music. The event is held every fourth Saturday from 6:00 -9:00 PM EST. Admission is free but a $5 donation at the door is appreciated to pay for the sound system, electricity, and other Opry expenses.

The Opry began in 1979, and before the pandemic, had only been cancelled twice, for bad weather. The performers, from around the region, gather ahead of time in small clusters backstage, or out under the trees when the days are long and the weather warm. You are welcome to bring food or enjoy some BBQ from King's Pig BBQ food truck. They tune their instruments and share songs, awaiting their turn on stage. Jammers are encouraged to bring their instruments and play in the side picking rooms.

TIVOLI THEATRE

709 Broad St, Chattanooga, TN
423-757-5580
tivolichattanooga.com

The Tivoli Theatre, known as "The Jewel of the South," has entertained Chattanoogaans and visitors for over 90 years, offering everything from silent movies to Broadway shows. Located downtown on Broad Street, the Tivoli opened its doors in March of 1921.

In 1924, a $30,000 Wurlitzer organ was installed. In 1926 the Tivoli became one of the first public buildings in the country to be air-conditioned. Throughout the 20s, 30s, and 40s, the Tivoli was Chattanooga's premiere entertainment venue. However, in the 50s, the birth of television put the Tivoli on hard times. The theater fell into disrepair and was almost demolished, but in 1962, a grant from Chattanooga's Benwood Foundation saved the theater and the Tivoli was placed on the National Register of Historic Places.

The Tivoli is one of Chattanooga's three historic theaters, partnering with The Walker Theater and Soldiers and Sailors Memorial Auditorium to hold many events at one time. The Tivoli now hosts world renowned musicians, comedians, and Broadway performances, and is host to the Chattanooga Symphony and Opera and the Chattanooga Ballet.

ON THE WATER

From calm lakes to rushing rivers, Southeast Tennessee is woven together by water. Choose to raft the Ocoee River's premier whitewater rapids, paddle the family-friendly Hiwassee River Blueway, or spend the day fishing on any one of our scenic lakes. Grab your swimming suit and shades and plan for some wet and wild fun during your stay.

SOUTHEASTTENNESSEE.COM

The Ocoee River is known as the one of the premier whitewater rivers in the United States. Whether you're shooting the rapids along the 5-mile long Olympic whitewater course or paddling through rapids on the 5-mile middle section, the Ocoee River promises unbeatable thrills. The river runs through the Cherokee National Forest and is regulated by the Tennessee Valley Authority. Guided trips are scheduled March through October. Learn more at www.OcoeeCountry.com.

PARKVILLE LAKE
(LAKE OCOEE)

Parkville Lake, also known as Lake Ocoee, is a reservoir on the Ocoee River formed by the Tennessee Valley Authority's Dam No. 1. Completed in 1911, the dam was among the first hydroelectric projects in the region. It was acquired by TVA in 1939. The lake is set within the boundaries of the Cherokee National Forest near Benton, Tenn.

THE LITTLE FLOWER THAT COULD!

Ruth's Golden Aster is the tiny flower that embodies the spirit of Polk County!

Our county was founded by strong people who made a life out of these hardscrabble mountains just as this extremely rare, yellow-petaled, silvery-leaved perennial herb clings to the tiny soil deposits in the rock that anchors these flowers to the source of the limited nutrients that they need to survive. Similar to our river guides and recreational boaters, these plants need the repetitive flooding of the rivers to keep them alive! Only Polk County's Hiwassee and Ocoee River locations have the precise confluence of hydrology, location, and geology to provide the perfect habitat that allows this proud little flower to continue to fight for its survival.

Ruth's Golden Aster's main threats include its specific habitat, pollution of the water system through drainage, spills, and runoff from farms and industrial operations (especially on the Ocoee), as well as accidental trampling by hikers and boaters. Other issues include climate change and the changes in weather patterns that it brings, as well as the plans to widen Hwy 64 through the Ocoee gorge.

This is where you come in! By purchasing this patch or sticker, through the Hiwassee State Park office, the funds generated by this purchase will be used to restore or stabilize current populations, increase monitoring beyond the 3-season mark to determine the true efficacy of the restoration efforts, and continue positive steps toward reintroducing this species and hopefully someday removing it as an endangered plant.

TENNESSEE RIVER

Tennessee River Gorge

The 652-mile Tennessee River is formed at the confluence of the Holston and French Broad rivers to the east of Knoxville and flows south into Alabama and Mississippi and then north into Kentucky where it empties into the Ohio River. In the Southeast Tennessee, three dams create reservoirs along the river: Watts Bar Lake, Chickamauga Lake, and Nickajack Lake.

Water recreation on the Tennessee River and its tributaries is a growing activity in the Chattanooga region. A number of communities and businesses throughout the region provide river access, fishing, marinas, outfitters, food, lodging and camping. For more information, visit www.TVA.gov.

ROCK CLIMBING IN SOUTHEAST TENNESSEE

Southeast Tennessee is recognized as the southeastern capital for rock climbing. This incredible climbing destination offers it all - classic climbs to steep sport routes to perfect boulder problems - and there is an expanding inventory of crags and boulder fields that are being established and opened to the public.

The Southeast Tennessee Tourism Association partnered with regional climbing advocates to create a rock climbing guide that highlights a collection of the most popular climbing areas within an hour's drive of Chattanooga. A pdf version of the guide is available at SoutheastTennessee.com.

Savage Gulf State Park
1183 Stone Door Rd, Beersheba Springs, TN
931-779-3532
Tnstateparks.com
Tennessee has a new state park, and it's an area that has split from another state park! Savage Gulf State Park used to be part of South Cumberland State Park, but it deserves its own title. Located in Grundy and Sequatchie counties, this new park will feature the almost 19000-acre Savage Gulf State Natural Area. The park offers approximately 60 miles of hiking to remarkable vistas, waterfalls, and historical locations such as the Stagecoach Road. The highlight of the new park is the Great Stone Door, which is an impressive cliff line overlook. It gets its name from the top-to-bottom crack in the cliff that runs from the top to the bottom, resembling a door left slightly ajar.

North Chickamauga Creek Gorge State Park
354 Montlake Road, Soddy Daisy, TN
423-708-8313
Tnstateparks.com
Cut into the sandstone of Walden's Ridge, a beautiful new state park makes up a deep gorge and spans about ten miles. North Chickamauga Creek Gorge State Park is located in Hamilton and Sequatchie counties, and it offers a wide variety of diverse wildlife.

This area was designated as a state natural area in 1999, but its popularity for activities like whitewater kayaking and trout fishing pushed the state to give it the title of state park. The park offers over 20 miles of hiking trails, which form a portion of the 300-mile Cumberland Trail. Upcoming plans for the park include improved parking areas, a visitor's center, ADA viewing platform, and trail improvements. With its close proximity to Chattanooga, this new state park is sure to be a huge hit for tourists and locals.

Hiwassee/Ocoee Scenic River State Parks
404 Spring Creek Rd., Delano, TN
888-867-2757
Tnstateparks.com
Currently managed jointly, the separation of these two distinct areas will mean there's technically a new state park. Hiwassee Scenic River State Park was founded in 1972, with the management of the Ocoee River being added in 1984. In 2024, the ten-mile stretch of the Ocoee River was designated as the first-ever Olympic River due to its history hosting the kayaking competitions from the 1996 Summer Olympic Games. The Hiwassee State Scenic River offers 85 acres of public access to the river, including public launch ramps, picnicking area, campground, Visitor Center, and support facilities. Prized for rafting, canoeing, and kayaking, it also provides high quality, resource-based recreation and educational opportunities through camping, picnicking, and hiking. Operation will continue under Hiwassee/Ocoee Scenic River State Park as initial activities are conducted to develop both as state parks. All reservations and permits will be honored. No action is required from guests or outfitters related to the separation of operations.

BENTON MACKAYE TRAIL (BMT)

Explore the stunning beauty of the Southern Appalachian Mountains on the Benton MacKaye Trail (BMT) in Tennessee! Enjoy scenic hikes by the Hiwassee River, marvel at waterfalls like Upper Bald River Falls, and soak in the panoramic views from atop Buck Bald and Whigg Meadow. Perfect for family hikes, leisurely strolls, or backpacking wilderness adventures, the BMT spans 288 miles across Georgia, Tennessee, and North Carolina. In Tennessee, the trail winds through the Cherokee National Forest as well as five Wilderness Areas. Discover colorful wildflowers – lady slippers, dwarf crested iris, a wide array of trillium, fire pink and more. Tree-size rhododendrons and flame azaleas will not disappoint in the spring. Catch a glimpse of wildlife – bear, deer, bobcats, turkey, wild hogs and foxes.

Lost Creek is a stunning, kid and dog-friendly hike near Reliance, Tennessee. The 2.7-mile trail runs alongside the creek and kids and dogs can play below gentle waterfalls in a limestone gorge.

The Hiwassee River offers an 8.6-mile hike beginning at the BMT's Childers Creek Trailhead. It offers lovely river views, a picnic spot at the rocky point, as well as a campsite with a swimming beach further upstream. At 22.9 miles, the Upper Bald River Falls Wilderness Loop is a backpacker's delight! Start your hike at the Brookshire Creek Trailhead. Check out the glistening cascades of whitewater rushing over Upper Bald River Falls. The trail meanders through several scenic gaps to reach Waucheesi Bald, a perfect camping spot on a beautiful grassy bald.

Bring your family and dog for a picnic on Whigg Meadow, just 1.6 miles from the BMT's Mud Gap Trailhead. In the spring, striking flame azaleas are scattered around the emerald green bald. Snack on blueberries and blackberries while admiring the far-off mountains!

Located near the Tennessee/North Carolina state line, Unicoi Gap is a site on the historic Unicoi Turnpike National Historic Trail (UTNHT), which intersects the BMT just south of the gap. After the Cherokee Removal the UTNHT was recognized as a segment of the Trail of Tears. The trek from the BMT's Unicoi Gap Trailhead offers a strenuous nine-mile hike, including a beautiful ridge line walk along the Tennessee/North Carolina state line, an engraved stone marker on the state line as well as the ruins of the historic Doc Rogers' House. It's a perfect mix of history and nature!

To learn more about these hikes on the BMT, go to bmta.org or contact Joy Forehand, jforehand@bmta.org.

NORTH AMERICA'S FIRST NATIONAL PARK CITY!

Chattanooga is officially North America's first National Park City! Everyone in a National Park City is able to benefit and contribute every day. It is a large-scale and long-term vision that is achievable through many actions. Much is already happening but by working, learning, sharing and acting together, across communities and governments, we can achieve even more.

Chattanooga is a place unlike anywhere else: a city that is not merely close to nature and diverse, but whose citizens are close to nature and each other. Our identity as a National Park City will not be a new direction for Chattanooga - it will be in recognition of who we have always been and a commitment to the journey to include more faces and places along the way. As a National Park City, we are excited to commit to this work and share what we learn from it with the world.

WATERFALL WONDER IN SOUTHEAST TENNESSEE

Rivers, creeks, and waterfalls are part of Southeast Tennessee's natural charm, and there's just no better way to experience the region's lush landscape than by sitting on a boulder in the misty realm of a waterfall or hiking along a cascading creek to a breathtaking waterfall.

Find your waterfall adventure with the Waterfall Wonder Guide, produced by the Southeast Tennessee Tourism Association.

The guide features 16 of the most scenic and accessible waterfalls on public lands in the greater Chattanooga area, including spectacular waterfalls in South Cumberland State Park, the Cherokee National Forest, Cumberland Trail State Park, and Fall Creek Falls State Park.

Of course, please use caution when visiting any of the region's waterfalls. Be sure to wear stable shoes and avoid slippery rocks or crossing in dangerous places and keep children safe distances from dangerous ledges.

Download the Waterfall Wonder Guide at: SoutheastTennessee.com or pick up a guide at Outdoor Chattanooga, the Chattanooga Airport or one of the region's Tennessee Welcome Centers.

BIKE TN

Bike Tennessee is a statewide road cycling initiative featuring professionally curated routes that showcase the small towns, natural landscapes, and hidden gems that can only be found along Tennessee's backroads. Administered by the Tennessee Department of Tourist Development, Bike Tennessee aims to inspire visitors to experience Tennessee's scenic beauty and rich heritage on two wheels.

Bike Tennessee's collection of road cycling routes have been crafted in collaboration with a professional cycling guide and developer, Shannon Burke, of Velo View Bike Tours in Chattanooga. The routes feature mostly rural, low-traffic cycling experiences in some of Tennessee's most scenic and historic landscapes including multiple state parks.

Bike Tennessee is designed for seasoned road cyclists and offers diverse ride options and landscapes – all mapped using the Ride With GPS app. In addition to the maps, ride descriptions are included with each route, offering insight into the character of the ride, points of interest, and potential modifications to shorten or lengthen the distance.

VELO VIEW BIKE TOURS

Celeste Cyr & Shannon Burke

Shannon Burke and Celeste Cyr of Velo View Bike Tours relocated from Austin, Texas to Chattanooga in 2016 in large part to have access to the incredible variety of scenic road, gravel and mountain bike routes available in the Chattanooga region. While their bike tour business continues to offer tours all over the country, the focus has shifted to offering more regional tours that showcase the unique beauty of southeast Tennessee.

Since its founding in 2012, Velo View Bike Tours has specialized in personalized bike vacations for small groups, with all-inclusive, fully supported bike tours. In addition to these pre-scheduled vacation packages, they also offer "build-your-own" custom tour options, which allow cyclists to choose their own distances, destinations and level of the support rather than buying a pre-set package. These custom options are a new service Velo View is offering, made possible by the number of amazing cycling choices so close to their new home base in Chattanooga.

For more information, check out their website at www.veloviewbiketours.com or call 423-834-8388.

Whitwell Middle School is home to one of the world's most profound memorials to the Holocaust victims of Nazi Germany, the Children's Holocaust Memorial. The memorial, which opened in 2001, features an authentic German rail car that was once used to transport detainees to Nazi death camps. Thirty-million paper clips are encased with the railcar, along with letters and mementos sent from around the world, to honor the memory of the millions of people who were murdered during the Holocaust. This memorial project was featured in the 2004 documentary, Paper Clips.

Student-led tours are offered on Friday mornings when school is in session. To book a tour, visit www.whitwellmiddleschool.org or email lhooper@mctns.net. Self-guided tours are also available. Visitors may gain access by picking up a key from Castle's Grocery at 13563 Hwy. 28 between 9 am-5 pm Central. The store can be reached at 423-658-6542.

CIVIL WAR HISTORY

The Chickamauga-Chattanooga National Military Park, located in northern Georgia and eastern Tennessee, preserves the sites of two major battles of the American Civil War: The Battle of Chickamauga and The Battles for Chattanooga. Established in 1895 through the efforts of Civil War veterans from both north and south, the park is the oldest and largest military park in the nation. The military park consists of four main areas: Chickamauga Battlefield, Missionary Ridge, Lookout Mountain Battlefield / Point Park, and Moccasin Bend.

Chickamauga & Chattanooga National Military Park Visitor Center

3370 LaFayette Rd., Fort Oglethorpe, GA
706-866-9241
Nps.gov/chch

The Battle of Chickamauga takes its name from West Chickamauga Creek, which meanders through northwest Georgia and into the Chattanooga area. Union and Confederate troops fought the Battle of Chickamauga on September 18-20, 1863. Although the Confederates were technically the victors, driving Union troops to Chattanooga, they did not achieve their objective of restoring Confederate control of East Tennessee. The battle caused the second-highest number of deaths in the Civil War: 34,000 Union and Confederate casualties.

The park's visitor center features interpretive exhibits, a book store, an artillery display, and a multi-media program about the battle. The 5,200-acre battlefield park contains hundreds of monuments, interpretative tablets, wayside exhibits, and hiking and biking trails.

Point Park

110 Point Park Rd., Lookout Mountain, TN
706-866-9241

Point Park is a 10-acre memorial park that overlooks the Lookout Mountain Battlefield and Chattanooga. In December 1863, a photographer from Ohio, Robert "Royan" M. Linn, established a photo studio at Point Lookout, naming it Gallery Point Lookout. He and his brother, J. Birney Linn, took hundreds of photos of Union officers, soldiers and civilians posing at Point Lookout and nearby Umbrella Rock.

Point Park features a paved walking trail that highlights historic tablets, monuments and scenic overlooks. The largest monument in Point Park is the New York Peace Memorial, which was erected by the state of New York as a tribute to peace and reconciliation between Union and Confederate veterans after the war. The Ochs Memorial Observatory features exhibits, photographs and overlooks of Chattanooga and the Tennessee River. Admission fee.

Lookout Mountain Battlefield - Visitor Center

110 Point Park Rd., Lookout Mtn., TN
706-866-9241

After the Confederate victory at Chickamauga, troops occupied Lookout Mountain, where they could peer down upon and watch Union activities in Chattanooga. On November 24, 1863, Union troops attacked the Confederates and drove them from the mountain during the "Battle Above the Clouds." The following morning, the American flag flew from the mountain's pinnacle. For the rest of the Civil War, Lookout Mountain was a tourist destination for Union soldiers and civilians. A visitor center is located outside Point Park and features exhibits about the Civil War campaign for Chattanooga, including a large painting "The Battle Above the Clouds."

CHEROKEE HERITAGE

Native American towns and villages thrived for thousands of years along the rivers and within the valleys of Southeast Tennessee. One of the tribes that inhabited the region was the Cherokee, who by 1700 claimed land that included parts of Southeast Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina. However, by 1837, 46,000 Native Americans had been forcibly removed from their lands East of the Mississippi River through what became known as the Trail of Tears.

Despite this tragic chapter in American history, the Cherokee people today live on as a renewed, invigorated nation – and their legacy continues in this region through the natural, historical and cultural landscape. Historically significant sites throughout the region offer a deeper understanding of the cultural heritage of the people who lived in Southeast Tennessee prior to European settlement. Download the guide to Cherokee Heritage in Southeast Tennessee at www.SoutheastTennessee.com to learn more about important historical sites and stories relating to Cherokee history in the region.

CHEROKEE HISTORY EXHIBITS AND “VOICES FROM THE PAST” TRAIL AT HIWASSEE RIVER HERITAGE CENTER IN CHARLESTON

The banks of the Hiwassee River in Southeast Tennessee were witness to nationally significant history involving the Trail of Tears and the Civil War. Present-day Charleston, Tenn., was once the site of the federal Indian Agency and eventually Fort Cass, the U.S. military headquarters for the entire Cherokee “Trail of Tears” Removal. The Hiwassee River was also a pivotal crossing point for troop movement in the Civil War, and several officers on both sides of the conflict made Charleston a stop in their operations.

In 2019, the Hiwassee River Heritage Center expanded its footprint and education efforts to include a National Historic Trail experience, exhibits and an education room.

The first segment of Charleston’s new National Historic Trail Experience, Voices from the Past, connects the Hiwassee River Heritage Center to Charleston Park. The paved trail features signage with quotes about the Cherokee Removal at Fort Cass from Cherokee people, missionaries and U.S. military figures.

“The trail sets the stage for learning more about the Trail of Tears and bringing the struggle of that time to a personal level,” says Melissa Woody, vice president for Tourism Development of the Cleveland/Bradley Chamber of Commerce and Development Chair for the CCH Historical Society. “Presenting quotes from the people affected by this difficult time in history really brings this story to life and to a relatable place for all of us as human beings.”

Updated Trail

The Cherokee Removal Memorial Park in Meigs County has updated their trail. It highlights the beginning of the actual path the Cherokee people took on the Trail of Tears. It’s an important place to visit to remember the suffering the Cherokee endured when they were forced to leave their homeland. After visiting the trail, you can go to the Memorial Wall to read the names of those who walked the same path.
